

Letter to Parents

SAMPLE

Dear Parent(s):

The school campuses of America are filled with young people searching for hope in their personal, family, and social lives. Most of the millions of middle, junior high, and senior high school students do not have an adequate witness of God's love and hope in their lives. Only about 20 percent of these students attend a church where they can hear the message of hope.

Your son/daughter made a meritorious decision of selflessness. (Student's first name) recognizes the value of God's grace and forgiveness in his/her life and wants to share this blessing more purposefully with his/her peers at school.

During our recent (youth meeting, camp, retreat, etc.), (student's first name) decided to serve his/her school campus as a missionary to his/her peers. The commitment is simple. He/she has committed to a five-fold approach of a Christian example before his/her peers at school. The five commitments of a campus missionary are to pray, live, tell, serve, and give.

We will have a campus missionary commissioning service at church on (date) for your son/daughter and the others committed to this mission. I congratulate you on having such a wonderfully conscientious son/daughter. I am sure you are proud of him/her. Our world is a brighter place with people like (student's first name).

Sincerely,
